The Direct Care Alliance is a national and state-based alliance of direct care workers, employers, and people of all ages living with disabilities or chronic conditions who use long-term services. We are united to build an empowered, valued, and professional direct care workforce to ensure high-quality services; and a life of dignity, respect, autonomy, and opportunity for all direct care workers and the people they care for.

Our principles

- ▶ We believe that direct care workers, consumers, and employers must work together to win changes that make sense for all those who provide and receive long term services.
- ▶ We support the right of all elders and people living with disabilities or chronic conditions to receive quality long-term services in their home.
- ▶ We support quality jobs for direct care workers that include a living wage, benefits, training, and respectful working conditions.
- ▶ We believe that denying labor protections for homecare workers will further amplify the shortage of home-care workers.
- ▶ We believe that the current long-term care system is irrational, under-funded, and must be changed.
- ▶ We believe that the fulfillment of these principles will create a stable direct care workforce that is essential to providing quality services to consumers.
